(c) It is not practicable to state the total income from rural post offices because assessment of income is carried out only in respect of extra-departmental offices and that also once in three years. Departmental post offices maintained on a permanent basis in rural areas are not subject to periodical assessment of income nor is it practicable to state with any degree of accuracy what the total expenditure on rural postal network is because apart from the pay and allowances paid to employees posted in rural areas and other direct expenses such as rents, there are supervisory overheads at various levels which cannot be conveniently apportioned as between 'Urban' and 'rural'.
